

Qualities for Awesome Growth & Change: Copyright and Use Guidelines

Not for use with any other program:

The phrases beginning with "All awesome growth" are copyright protected and are part of my philosophy for my work with clients and may not be used in whole or in part, for any other coaching, counseling, or educational program.

Use of the phrases in all printed forms except books, magazine and newspaper articles:

You may not post more than one of the phrases together.

You may only use one phrase per page of content to augment a point you are writing about.

You must refer to the author and website when using the phrases in writing. Please follow these examples:

Footnote:

In body:

Life and career coach, Jason Signor, in speaking of change, explains that, "All awesome growth happens in the context of accountability."¹

Reprinting in published works such as books, magazines, and newspaper articles:

Use the guidelines above, and you must also contact me before use, at jason@jasonsignor.net. Explain why you want to use the phrase or phrases and the context in which you will be using it/them. Once published, please email me author name, date of publication, publisher, date of publication, and title of the work published (e.g. link to a book at amazon.com; link to a newspaper article).

Social media use:

The phrases may be used on social media. E.g. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn.

You may only post one of the phrases per post, not to exceed more than one post per day.

Your post must include the following citation in the same image or text content as the phrase:

by Life & Career coach Jason Signor. See Qualities for Awesome Growth & Change at <https://jasonsignor.net>

Video use:

You may use the phrases in videos that are not for cash profit. The only exception is monetized YouTube videos.

You may not post more than one of the phrases together.

You may only use one phrase per video to augment a point you are explaining.
